The Humble ADDRESS of the Houſe of Commons to the KING, in Anſwer to his SPEECH of the 14th of January, 1766. [See N° 16 of this Paper.]

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE Your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Great-Britain in Parliament aſſembled, return Your Majeſty our moſt humble Thanks for Your Moſt Gracious Speech from the Throne.

It is with the higheſt Senſe of Your Majeſty's Goodneſs, we acknowledge that Care for the Welfare of Your People, and that Confidence in the Loyalty and Affection of Your faithful Commons, which Your Majeſty ſhews, in the early Communication Your Majeſty has been pleaſed to order, of the neceſſary Information relative to the Diſturbances in America. Your Reliance on the Wiſdom and Duty of Your Parliament in a Matter of ſo great Importance, and the Attention ſhewn by Your Majeſty in referring to our Deliberation and Advice the joint Concern of Your Majeſty's Royal Authority, the Rights of Your Parliament, and the Happineſs of Your Subjects, are at once Objects of our higheſt Admiration and Gratitude.

It is our Duty, as it ſhall be our Care, to imitate that Temper and Equanimity which appear in Your Majeſty's Conduct, by mixing with our Zeal for the Honour of Your Majeſty's Government, and with our juſt Regard for the Dignity and Authority of Parliament, the utmoſt Attention to the important Objects of the Trade and Navigation of theſe Kingdoms, and the tendereſt Concern for the united Intereſts of all Your Majeſty's People.

It is with inexpreſſible Grief we are again called upon to condole with Your Majeſty, on the Death of another Prince of Your Royal Family, whoſe amiable Diſpoſition, and whoſe early Virtues in the firſt Dawn of Life, while they ſhew him worthy of the illuſtrious Race he ſprung from, muſt now double our Regret for his untimely Loſs.

The general State of Peace and Tranquility ſo happily reigning in all Parts of Europe, muſt give the greateſt Satisfaction to every one, who has any Concern for the true Intereſt of this Country, or who feels for the general Happineſs of Mankind.

Our Aſſiſtance ſhall not be wanting to aid Your Majeſty with our Advice, and to ſtrengthen Your Authority for the Continuation of that Harmony, ſo happily preſerved by the Wiſdom of Your Majeſty's Councils, and the Influence of Your mild auſpicious Government.

We aſſure Your Majeſty that we ſhall, with the greateſt Chearfulneſs, grant Your Majeſty the Supplies neceſſary for the current Service of the Year; placing the firmeſt Reliance on the Promiſe Your Majeſty is graciouſly pleaſed to make, of ſeeing them duly applied, with that Oeconomy which Your own Wiſdom will direct, and which the Circumſtances of this Country ſo ſtrongly demand.

The Unanimity and Diſpatch, which Your Majeſty is pleaſed to recommend, we ſhall, from Motives both of Duty and Inclination, endeavour to make the Rule of our Proceedings; being ſenſible, that nothing can more immediately tend to add Weight to the Deliberations of Parliament, or Efficacy to their Reſolutions.

And as the conſtant Tenor of Your Majeſty's Conduct ſhews that the Happineſs and Proſperity of Your People are the ſole Objects of Your Concern, we ſhould be equally wanting in Duty to our Sovereign, and Care for our own Honour, did we a Moment neglect our Part, in promoting all ſuch wiſe and ſalutary Meaſures as may tend to reflect Dignity on Your Majeſty's Government, and fix the Welfare of Your People on the moſt ſolid Foundation.

LONDON, January 15, 1766.

To the PUBLIC.

WHEN mercenary Writers are employed by Parties to vindicate their paſt Conduct, drawing Concluſions from preſumptive Arguments, regardleſs of, (though under the Pretence of) ſupporting the common Weal; every diſintereſted Lover of his Country muſt have a ſenſible Concern for the real public Good, and ought to lend a Hand to fan the Duſt that is ſo frequently attempted to be raiſed to incenſe our Sovereign againſt Part of his affectionate and loyal Subjects, and to make People of all Ranks blind to Juſtice, and the Welfare, Strength, and Peace of the Nation.

If the Trade between the Colonies and the Mother-Country, which is now at a Stand, ſhould remain ſo a few Months longer, not to ſay a Year or two, it is too evident to admit of a Doubt, that ſome Thouſands of Artificers who uſed to get Bread for themſelves, and Subſiſtance for their Families, by manufacturing Articles conſumed in America, muſt either ſtarve, or become a national Charge, or elſe go over, for the Relief of their Neceſſities, to their ſlighted Brethren in America.

If our Commerce with the Plantations is not ſoon reſtored to its uſual Channel, what muſt be the inevitable Conſequence and dreadful Calamity at Home? The Shock already is ſenſibly felt in many Parts of this Kingdom. The Stagnation of Trade is ſo real, and the various Petitions for Relief from many Parts ſo well grounded, that any Inſinuations to the contrary can have no Weight with the Public in general; nor, I hope, with the Repreſentatives of the People in particular, to bias their Judgment.

The evil Conſequence of the Stamp-Act almoſt univerſally affects High and Low already. The Merchant ſuffers for Want of Remittances, the labouring People for Want of Employment. In the mean Time, while England ſuffers, the Americans will be conſiderable Gainers, by making a Virtue of Neceſſity, and wearing of their old Clothes, till they can provide themſelves new ones of their own Spinning and Weaving. And by this Means the ſuperfluous, and not the real neceſſary Articles of Life, which perhaps makes the greater Part of what is expended, will be ſaved to them beſide. And it undoubtedly will become among them a Mark of a heroic Diſpoſition at leaſt for ſome Number of Years, to wear their own Manufactures. And when Neceſſity has taught them by Induſtry and Experience, the Value of the ſame, no Doubt but ſome of it will be continued down to the third or fourth Generation, which will take ſo much Buſineſs and Bread in future out of the Hands of the Poor in England.

If the Stamp-Act is not repealed, and the Americans refuſe to receive it on Civil Authority, there ſeems but one Step more wanting to enfeeble the Strength, and to complete the Ruin of this long renowned Kingdom and Government, that is, to ſend an Army of Force ſufficient to compel them to Obedience. Such a Step, inſtead of treating them as Friends would alienate their Affections from the beſt of Sovereigns. The Succeſs might be dubious, or for ſome Time in Suſpence, as the Situation of the Americans is boundleſs, and in many Parts inacceſſible to an Engliſh Army, without the Aid and Support of the Coloniſts themſelves; and from their unanimous Apprehenſions of having their legal Privileges infringed, their preſent Reſentment ſeems to beſpeak Courage. Should it be the unhappy Conſequence, that we ſhould come to open Rupture and Violence among ourſelves, no Doubt but our aſſiduous Neighbours the French will mark our Follies, and will not fail in becoming Arbiters in the Caſe, and of lending a Hand to put an End to our Quarrels. However, I hope my Countrymen, who are offended at the Conduct of the Americans, in aſſerting what they deem their juſt Privileges, will have ſome Moderation with their Anger, and remember the Indiſcretion of the Man, who is ſaid to ſet his Houſe on Fire, becauſe he would not fail, at any Expence, of burning his Cat.

The Danger of domeſtic Broils, and the impending Ruin of many Thouſands of the King's moſt valuable Subjects, calls aloud for the ſober and diſpaſſionate Attention of the Parliament. Sound Policy, and the critical Situation of Affairs, requires rather mild than rigorous Meaſures to anſwer ſalutary Purpoſes. If the late Adminiſtration have infringed upon the Charters, and encroached upon the legal and juſt Privileges of free-born Americans, Juſtice alone ought to be ſufficient to plead their Cauſe. However, the Fitneſs of giving them Redreſs from the Admiralty-Courts will appear reaſonable, if the People in England were cooly for an Hour or two, to ſuppoſe the Caſe their own, or upon the whole to think how they could reliſh a Star-Chamber again in England.

If the Rod that is now ſhaking over the Americans was laid aſide, until their Sovereign could hear their Petitions and Grievances, although the Americans might think a ſtanding Army among them a needleſs Charge, and unneceſſary for their Defence; yet I make no Doubt but they would voluntarily and freely contribute, by their own Acts, to the Support of Government in England, in ſuch Manner and Proportion as they can beſt ſee and know how to comply with, to the utmoſt of their Abilities. This, indeed, would bring Treaſure into the King's Exchequer, and, in Proportion, leſſen the Taxes in England, or ſink the national Debt.

All the Americans are trained Militia-Men, and beſt qualified for Buſh-fighting, and their Conſtitutions beſt adapted to bear the Fatigues, and to enjoy Health in their native Climate. And as there are no other Enemies now but the Indians to guard againſt, and they can no longer be incenſed and ſupplied with Arms and Ammunition by the French, they will be brought more and more into Friendſhip and Alliance with the Engliſh. If the loyal Americans can be treated as Brethren, and are ſuffered inviolably to enjoy the Rights of their Charters and valuable Privileges, as free-born Subjects, we ſhall ever gain the unſhaken Attachment of their Loyalty and Affection; the Cultivation of which is of the utmoſt Importance, and it muſt tend to mutual Benefit; but in an eſpecial Manner to the Advantage of the Mother-Country: Which I am perſuaded Time will fully evince, whatever Meaſure may be purſued for the preſent.

I have oft thought, the firm and repeated Remonſtrances of the French Parliament to their King, was an undeniable Indication of valuable Subjects belonging to that Power. For the Welfare of the Public is the Strength of the Sovereign; who, when the Rights of every Individual are held ſacred, will have the Wealth and Affections of the People at Command. By the ſame Rule, the Americans ſhew themſelves capable of making ſtaunch and loyal Subjects, of which they have given direct and evident Proofs during the late Wars: For they who will ſuffer their Rights and Privileges to be taken from them, without making Remonſtrances, may alſo be bought or ſold, or forcibly be compelled to the ſlaviſh Submiſſion of every Invaſion of foreign Power; and are fit to be made deſpicable Slaves indeed.

PRO PATRIA.

NEW-YORK, March 19.

MONDAY laſt came up Capt. Briſon, from Holland, but laſt from Dover, in eight Weeks: A few Days ago he ſpoke with a Brig from Rhode-Iſland bound for South-Carolina, but as it blew hard at the Time, could not learn the Captain's Name: And laſt Thurſday Week he ſpoke with a Schooner from Santa Croix for Salem, twelve Days out, the Maſter of which informed him, that one of our Men of War had turned Pirates in the Weſt-Indies.

Upon a Suppoſition that the Cannon upon the Battery in this City were ſpiked by Order of a Lieutenancy, an Effigy was exhibited laſt Thurſday, ſitting upon a Piece of Ordnance (properly mounted) with a Drill conſtructed in ſuch a Manner, as to be continually working. On his Breaſt was fixed a Paper, on which were the following Lines;

I'm deceiv'd by the D, and left in the Lurch,*
*And am forc'd to do Penance, tho' not in the C**.*

After it appeared in the principal Streets, attended by many thouſand Spectators, (although it rained great Part of the Time) it was carried to the Common, where a Fire was immediately made, and the whole conſumed by 5 o'Clock in the Afternoon, amidſt the Acclamations of the Multitude, who diſperſed immediately after. The Froliek was conducted with ſuch Order and Decorum, that no Perſon ſuſtained the leaſt Damage.

N. B. The Public are deſired to take Notice, that the Cannon ſtill remain ſpiked; and it is expected that no further Hint will be neceſſary.

March 20. We hear from New-Rochelle, in Weſt-Cheſter County, that a Negro Woman, belonging to Mrs. Rodman of that Place, was laſt Week delivered of a Negro Child, after which ſhe continued as well as Women in her Circumſtances generally are, for three or four Days, when ſhe was taken in Labour again, and delivered of a Mulattoe Child.

Extracts of ſundry Letters from London, by the Packet.

Letter the 1ſt, dated the 16th of January, 1766.

"I wrote on Saturday------to acquaint you our new Miniſtry were Friends to America, and that I hope for no leſs than a total Repeal of the oppreſſive Acts, which ſince have become more evident by the Debates of the Houſe on Tueſday, when Mr. Pitt appeared openly in your Favour, and gave ſuch Reaſons, (not only for a Repeal, but aſſerted your Privileges as Engliſhmen, backed with ſuch Arguments) as ſilenced all Oppoſition: I am Witneſs to the good Diſpoſition of the Miniſtry, as I am choſen ſpecial Agent on the Occaſion for one of the Colonies."

Letter 2d, January 16.

-----Few imagined Mr. Pitt would have been at the Houſe, but I have the Pleaſure to write you that he was---and made a moſt excellent Speech in Favour of the Colonies: He denied that they were repreſented in Parliament,----ſaid it was unconſtitutional to lay internal Taxes upon them,----that as to the legal Part of the Act, he ſhould reſerve himſelf to anſwer ſuch Gentlemen as were of the Law, at their next Debate on that Subject: That he was of Opinion that the Colonies ought to have as extended a Trade as we could poſſibly give them.---In ſhort he never made a Speech equal to this.----It has given great Spirit to the American Cauſe, and will, I doubt not, confirm many Members who tottered in their Opinion.

Mr. Grehville was very warm againſt the Colonies, and is for enforcing the Act.----Yeſterday I attended the Houſe again.----A Motion had been made that all Advices to the Adminiſtration, from the Governors and others, ſhould be laid before the Houſe, and they were accordingly laid on the Table: Then a motion was made, that they ſhould be printed: This occaſioned many Speeches-----deſiring that the Names of the Governors and others, might not be printed, nor the Places from whence dated; for that ſuch Perſons would fall under the Reſentment of the Americans, and perhaps their Lives and Properties might be endangered: That ſome Governors were dependent on the People for their Sallaries, which they might be deprived of for giving ſuch Advice here,----for it ſeems ſome of them have wrote very ſevere Letters againſt the Colonies. Mr. Grenville, Nugent, and ſeveral others, oppoſed the Suppreſſion of any Names, and were for having the whole printed----ſaying, that this Kingdom was able, and would defend ſuch Governors, and others, for being loyal Subjects, and doing their Duty among a People who were in open Rebellion:---This Word Rebellion, was uſed by ſeveral others. It was at laſt reſolved that the ſaid Letters and Advices from America, ſhould be printed, leaving out ſuch Parts as might lead to a Diſcovery of the Perſons who wrote them.----To-Morrow the North-American Merchants Petition will be preſented.---Mr. N. and I are ordered to attend the Committee: Many other Petitions are come to Town; that of Leeds and Halifax will be preſented To-Morrow by L. G. Sackville, but I believe no more will be ſaid or done, than to put down a Day to conſider them. The 28th current, is ſet down for American Affairs, then I think the American Remonſtrance will be delivered. I ſhall conſtantly attend the Houſe. There are 7 or 8 Perſons among us who do not ſign our Petition, among which Number I am, as we perhaps ſhall be called to the Bar of the Houſe to be examined, when we had better not be Petitioners.

I have the Honour of many Letters from the Great, as well as frequent Conferences with many Members. I have juſt received a Letter from, and have been with, Col. Barre above an Hour. He is our good Friend, and an able one, and ſeconds our Petition: In ſhort the Merchants trading to America, ſpread a great Circle, and are now ſupported by Mr. Pitt; which, together with the good Diſpoſition of the Miniſtry, has greatly confirmed our Hopes to obtain a Repeal of the impolitic Stamp-Act, and alſo an Enlargement of your Trade, as well as Alterations in the Vice-Admiralty Courts. ---But don't be too much elated, we are not yet certain;---- we have only Reaſon to hope and expect from preſent Appearances----I wiſh to God I may be able in my next to adviſe you of the Repeal; every Thing material I ſhall from Time to Time let you know, which as a Lover of your Country will, I doubt not be agreeable to you.

When the Addreſs to the King on his Speech was read, Mr. Hurris ſtood up and ſaid, that all that Part which related to America, was in too mild Expreſſions; for that they were in open Rebellion againſt the ſupreme legiſlative Authority of Kings, Lords and Commons. But he had not one to ſecond him, and therefore the Addreſs paſſed, Nem. Con. &c.

Letter 3d, January 18.

"On Tueſday laſt the Parliament met,---Immediately after the King's Speech, they proceeded upon American Affairs, and went further into them than intended, as the Debate ought to have been confined to the Subject of the Addreſs.---Mr. Pitt came to the Houſe, and has declared firmly for the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, upon Principle: He concludes that the Parliament have only a Right to impoſe Taxes in their repreſentative Capacity; not in their legiſlative Capacity; and proves it by the Lords and King having no Pretence to grant Monies.----Therefore as the Americans are not repreſented (which in my Opinion he proved likewiſe, for I was in the Houſe) they certainly cannot be taxed by the Parliament of England, though they (the Parliament) have, in all other Reſpects, a full Sovereignty over America.---However the Affair is put off for a full conſideration of the Houſe, till Wedneſday Se'nnight, for which Purpoſe a Call of the Houſe is on Tueſday Se'nnight.---My Opinion is now more confirmed of an abſolute Repeal; and indeed before the Houſe met, I had a full two Hours Converſation with Lord------upon the Subject, and clearly ſaw how inclined the Adminiſtration was to repeal it.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.

The HALIFAX PACKET, with the January Mail, is arrived at New-York, by which we have the following Letter from London, dated January 18, 1766.

"As we expect the Packet will ſail before the Determination of Parliament on American Affairs, we forward this to Falmouth, for our Friends to know the preſent State thereof, at this critical Juncture, though the Time will not permit us to be ſo particular as could be wiſhed. Never was an Affair agitated in the Britiſh Parliament with more Zeal by the Advocates on each Side; or one which, by the many delicate concomitant Circumſtances, made the Iſſue more uncertain. Before the Meeting of the Houſe, the Idea of the Authority of Parliament appeared ſo prevalent in the Minds even of thoſe who, it was well known, are warmly attached to America, that it was impoſſible to ſay how far thoſe Ideas might become the general Voice of the Houſe; and the more ſo, as it was uncertain what Part Mr. PITT would take in the Affair; which, on his Appearance, was cleared up, by a Speech of an Hour and a Quarter, ſetting forth, that his Duty to his King and Country brought him there, to declare his Opinion that the Stamp-Act was the moſt impolitic, the moſt oppreſſive, the moſt unjuſt and illegal, that ever paſſed that Houſe. His chief Reaſons were, that an inſignificant Acquiſition to the Treaſury, could never be ſet in Competition with the great Benefits accruing to this Country from the Trade with its Colonies; and therefore every Encouragement ought to be given for the greateſt Extenſion of it. That if the Parliament had a Right to raiſe internal Taxes in the Colonies, the Purſe of every Man there was at the Command of every Miniſter.--That the Colonies were not repreſented, and therefore the Parliament had no Power of internal Taxation. On the other Hand, he very much condemned and diſapproved the Behaviour of the Coloniſts, adding, that if, by their Conduct hereafter, it appeared they were wanting in Duty to the Mother-Country, he would be one to ſell his Property, and embark on board a Man of War, to bring them to a due Senſe thereof.--And then concluding, that the only proper Meaſure to be purſued on the preſent Occaſion, was, as ſoon as poſſible, to repeal the whole Act; and thereby, as far as practicable, to bury in Oblivion, that which alienated the Affections of the Children from their Parent, &c.

"This Speech was anſwered by George Grenville, in juſtification of his Conduct, and replied to by Mr. PITT, with much Acrimony on both Sides; and the 28th Inſtant was fixed for a full Diſcuſſion of the Matter. Petitions from London, Briſtol, and many corporate manufacturing Towns, were Yeſterday preſented, but as yet none from the Colonies."

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.

In moſt of the Letters from London by the Packet, ſomething is ſaid relating to the Stamp-Act; but as the Subſtance of them is pretty much the ſame, it would be needleſs (if it could be done) to inſert them all; the following Extracts are therefore given, which, with what is inſerted under the New-York Head, it is thought contain nearly the Contents of the whole.

Extract of a Letter from London, January 10, 1766.

"The Committee of North-American Merchants have got their Petition ready to preſent to Parliament. We hear it will be oppoſed by Grenville and his Tools, to the utmoſt of their Power; but hope the great Pains the Committee have taken to ſupport it, will be attended with the deſired Succeſs, and that we ſhall have it in our Power to give you a favourable Account by the next Opportunity."

Extract of a Letter from London, January 11.

"I was in the Houſe of Commons when the King's Speech was read there, and heard, with much Indignation, George Grenville make a long, confuſed, violent, inflammatory Speech, highly cenſuring the Behaviour of the Colonies, in regard to the Stamp-Act, calling it downwright Rebellion, and propoſing to make uſe of very harſh expreſſions towards them, in their Anſwer to the Speech; but this was over-ruled, as it would appear to be condemning them unheard. Above Twenty Members ſpoke; and almoſt all of them, ſeemed to be for ſupporting and adhearing to their Legiſlative Authority over the Colonies, and their Right to impoſe Taxes upon them. But how they will act, when the whole Affair, with all the Circumſtances attending it, is laid before them, I cannot pretend to ſay. I hope they will conſider it cooly, and with the utmoſt Impartially; for no Body can at preſent foreſee all the Conſequences that may attend their final Determination in this truly important Matter. Various Schemes are ſaid to be laid before the Miniſtry, to compoſe this Difference; but I have not been able to learn any of them that ſeemed to deſerve the leaſt Credit, and therefore I will not repeat them. This only I will ſay, that I am quite certain the preſent Miniſtry wiſh to do you all poſſible Kindneſs, moſt of them having been ſtrongly againſt the Act, while it was under Deliberation laſt Year. And I heartily wiſh that before the Parliament breaks up, not only this, but every poſſible Difference which hereafter, as Things are now circumſtanced, might happen, will be removed, or prevented, and ſuch a Plan for an indiſſoluble Union laid, as muſt give Pleaſure to every Lover of his Country, and which, indeed, appears every Day, more and more, to be abſolutely neceſſary, in order to prevent the actual Separation of the various Branches of this moſt extenſive Empire."

Another of the ſame Date.

"The Aſſiduity of Doctor Franklin, in aſſiſting to obtain a Repeal of the Stamp-Act, is really aſtoniſhing. He is for ever with one Member of Parliament or another, endeavouring to impreſs them, firſt, with the Importance of the preſent Diſpute; then to ſtate the Caſe clearly and fully, ſtripping it of every thing foreign to the main Point; and laſtly, to anſwer Objections ariſing from a wrong conception of the Matter. To enforce this repeatedly, and with Propriety, in the Manner he has done for theſe two Months, I aſſure you is no eaſy Taſk. This is the moſt neceſſary and eſſential Service he could poſſibly perform on this Occaſion; and ſo effectually hath he done it, and I will venture to ſay, he hath thrown ſo much true Light upon the Subject, that if the Legiſlature doth not now give you ample Redreſs, is it not for Want of the fulleſt and moſt diſtinct Information, in reſpect to the real Merits of the Caſe."

Extract of a Letter from London, January 16.

"In my laſt I told you the Parliament would meet upon the 14th---After His Majeſty's Speech, recommending the Situation of the Colonies to the Conſideration of that auguſt Aſſembly, was delivered, the Commons returned to their own Houſe; and, in conſidering of an Addreſs to the Throne, took Occaſion to comment a little upon the Purport of the Speech.----Mr. G--v--He, with his wonted Regard to the Colonies, uttered many ſevere things againſt the rebellious Americans, which drew on a Reply from Mr. PITT.---The firſt named Gentleman ſpoke near an Hour and an Half, expatiating largely upon the late riotous Proceedings of the Coloniſts, and recommending it to the Houſe to make them ſenſible of their Dependance upon Great-Britain, and Subjection to any Laws ſhe ſhould think proper to impoſe upon them. This was anſwered by the Great and Immortal PITT, in a Speech, wherein he even exceeded himſelf. Perſuaſion flowed from his Tongue, and Conviction of the Truth of his Arguments ſeemed to tread cloſe upon it. He began by declaring, that at his coming into the Houſe, he did not intend to ſay what he now found himſelf obliged to utter, deſigning to reſerve his Opinion till the grand Queſtion came to be diſcuſſed on a future Day; but that as an Opportunity now offered, he was glad of the Occaſion of delivering his Opinion to the Houſe; eſpecially as his infirm State of Health rendered it impoſſible for him to promiſe that he ſhould be able to attend at a future Day; that he was happy to demand their Attention to what he might offer in Favour of an injured and oppreſſed People. He then proceeded to declare, that he thought the Tax illegal, unjuſt, unfair and impolitick. Illegal, becauſe the People, on whom it was laid, could give no Aſſent to it, as they were not repreſented in Parliament. Impolitick, to lay Burdens upon a People, from whom the greateſt Advantages are derived to the Mother Country, and whoſe Returns from thence, in the Courſe of Trade, have amounted, annually, to Two Millions Sterling; an Advantage not derived from Commerce with any other Part of the Globe. (Here he recapitulated the Conduct of the Miniſters, in regard to America, during ſeveral Reigns.) And the Loſs of this Trade is to be compenſated, by what? By perhaps Fifty Thouſand Pounds returned annually into the Exchequer, and obtained, poſſibly, by the Deſtruction of Thouſands of brave Men, and good Subjects. This, ſaid he, is a Stroke of Policy, founded on the ſame grovelling, ſordid Motives, which ever diſtinguiſhed that Gentleman's (pointing to G. G.) Adminiſtration. He obſerved, in Anſwer to the common Objection of the Colonies contributing towards the Expence incurred in their Defence, that Great-Britain had ſurely more in View than a generous Motive, when ſhe undertook their Defence; that ſhe had the ſtrongeſt Regard to her own Safety, in the Preſervation and Enlargement of her Trade and Territories.

"It is impoſſible to give you the whole of a Diſcourſe which laſted above two Hours and an Half, in which he ſpared not G. G. The Eloquence he diſplayed in Behalf of the Colonies, is amazing, and had the Affair been put to the Vote, he would ſurely have carried his Point.----What does not America owe to ſo kind, ſo warm an Advocate in her Cauſe?

"To-morrow the Merchants Petitions, and Memorials from the Colonies, are expected to be preſented.

"Though America has found ſo able an Advocate, yet it is difficult to ſay how this Affair will be determined; I mean the Right of impoſing Taxes. Mr. G. gives it out that he has reſerved his Arguments till the 28th Inſtant, when the Queſtion is to be fully and finally diſcuſſed.

"If it be allowed that the Colonies can only be taxed by their own Repreſentatives, how great a Happineſs muſt it be eſteemed, that they are not repreſented in Parliament; where any Number of Repreſentatives they could ſend, would only ſubject them to every Inconvenience from the Inequality of Numbers, without obtaining a ſingle Advantage?

"The Preſs daily gives ſomething new on the Subject; many of the Productions flimſey enough. A new ſenſible Piece, printed in America, entituled, "The Propriety of impoſing Taxes upon the Colonies," dated in Virginia, has juſt made its Appearance. Many aſcribe it to Dulany, of Maryland."

Another of the ſame Date.

"The Parliament having now been met three Days, we conclude the Gentlemen on your Side will be anxious to hear ſomething with regard to the intereſting Subject in Queſtion, ſo think it incumbent on us to embrace this earlieſt Opportunity, to mention, that it has been brought on the Carpet by the Great Commoner, who has expreſſed his Sentiments very favourably for North-America; as has alſo that upright Judge, Lord Camden, with ſome other worthy Men. Great Oppoſition has been made by the Partizans of the late Miniſtry; but we hope will not be ſufficient to over-rule the Opinions of ſuch able Men. The Subject is now poſtponed till Tueſday, the 28th Inſtant, for a further Hearing."

A Third of the ſame Date.

"No Appointment of ſpecial Agents from your, or any other of the Provinces, but that of Maſſachuſetts, who have appointed me to that Service, appearing, I was determined to uſe your joint Petitions to the beſt Purpoſes for the Colonies Advantage, though I ſtood alone in that Service; I have therefore, immediately on the Receipt of them, put them into the Hands of the Miniſtry, and they have had ſo good an Effect, that your American Intereſt bears a very favourable Aſpect; for on Tueſday, when the King's Speech came under Conſideration in the Houſe of Commons, Mr. PITT declared in your Favour, not only for repealing the noxious Laws, but in aſſerting the very Privileges you contend for, which is ſuch an intereſting Piece of News, I could not anſwer concealing; eſpecially as the Miniſtry are ſo obliging, as to detain the Packet a few Days, that we might have the Opportunity, as nearly as poſſible, to eaſe the Solicitudes of our Friends in America."

Extract of a Letter from London, January 18.

"Much of my Time, of late, has been taken up by attending Committees, &c. upon American Affairs, the Repeal of the Stamp Act, and Regulation of your Trade in general.

"Being one of a Committee appointed to wait upon the Members of Parliament, and upon thoſe particularly in the Adminiſtration; I have had frequent Opportunities of converſing with them on the Subject, and being informed, in ſome Degree, of their Opinion, ſhall, as briefly as I can, communicate it to you, for your Information.

"The two Secretaries of State, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and ſeveral of the Board of Treaſury, appear to be inclined to think favourably of your Cauſe, both with reſpect to your excluſive Right to internal Taxation, and to the Liberty you demand for your Trade.

"Some on the contrary, urge ſtrongly, the Neceſſity of that Power being inveſted in the Britiſh Parliament, alledging, that your Charters are very little different from thoſe of our Corporations, and have undergone, in many Colonies, frequent Changes ſince their being firſt granted. But with reſpect to Trade, they think more liberally, purpoſing to give you every Liberty therein you can deſire, or with Reaſon expect.

"People in general, have been rather divided in their Opinions; by far the greater Number, however, in Favour of the Rights of Parliament.---In this Situation were Peoples Minds, when, on Tueſday laſt, the Firſt Day of the Meeting of Parliament, Mr. PITT, who at Noon arrived from Bath, appeared very unexpectedly in the Houſe.

"The Seſſion was opened by a Speech on the Part of the Miniſtry, in which was thrown out an Inſinuation only, that poſſibly the Houſe might not have the Power of internal Taxation. This Opinion was combated and ſupported by ſeveral of the Members for about two Hours, when Mr. PITT roſe up, and ſaid, That the Minds of the People had been too long kept in Suſpence; that nothing was more injurous to Government, than heſitating what ought to be done; that from thence People would naturally infer, they were not themſelves fully convinced of the Rectitude of their Meaſures; and from this he proceeded to explain his own Opinion, with his uſual Eloquence.---It was, in every Reſpect, in your Favour, which is as much as I need to ſay.---Mr. Grenville oppoſed him, but with Arms too unequal to make the leaſt Impreſſion, but to his own Diſadvantage.

"Yeſterday the Houſe debated again on the Subject; Mr. PITT did not attend. The Members appear ſtill much divided, and a very great Oppoſition will certainly be made to it; God knows what will be the Event; however, I think you will certainly get rid of the Stamp Act.

"Laſt Night, being the Time appointed by Mr. PITT, Mr. Trecothick, and another Gentleman, waited upon him from the General North-American Committee, to return him their Thanks for what he had ſaid in Behalf of their Cauſe, and to deſire his future Favour and Protection; which he received them in the politeſt Manner, and aſſured them that as far as they had Reaſon and Juſtice on their Side, he would do all in his Power to ſupport them. He then proceeded to aſk them ſeveral Queſtions relating to the general Trade of the Colonies; on which Subject, he ſaid, his bad State of Health had not allowed him to procure Information from which he might form a well grounded Opinion. He likewiſe enquired the Nature of the Diſturbances that had happened, and ſaid, he was willing to attribute them to an exceſs of Zeal in a good Cauſe, that of Liberty. He deſired they would recommend it to you, particularly, to prevent any riotous Proceedings, and that your Petitions and Memorials be couched in Terms expreſſive of that Reſpect and Gratitude, you ſo juſtly owe this Country, for Liberty civil and religious, and for the Protection you have ſo lately, and ſo effectually, experienced.---Such, he ſaid, was his Advice to you, and he hoped it would have ſome Effect, as a probable Means of inducing the Houſe to liſten more favourably to your Cauſe."

Another of the ſame Date.

"The 14th Inſtant the Parliament met, and immediately proceeded on the American Grievances, when Debates ran very high: Our good worthy Patriot, Mr. PITT, ſpoke in Favour of the Americans, and againſt the Proceedings of the late Adminiſtration, in burthening them with ſo many Taxes, particularly that of the unconſtitutional Stamp-Act, for three Hours, and Twenty Minutes, and, it is ſaid, as never Man ſpoke before, which had ſuch an Effect upon the Houſe then, that when it comes to be determined, which is to be on Tueſday, the 28th Inſtant, we have not the leaſt Doubt of the Stamp-Act being repealed, with ſome Amendments of thoſe relating to Sugar, Melaſſes, &c.

"Yeſterday the Petition from the Committee of the Merchants of this City was preſented, together with others, from Briſtol, Leverpool, Mancheſter, and many other manufacturing Towns, all which were very cordially received by all except Grenville, and his Tools, who declare, they will ſupport the Act to the utmoſt of their Intereſt and Abilities, neither which are ſuppoſed to be half ſufficient."

NEW-YORK, March 24.

Mr. PRINTER,

By inſerting the following in your next Paper, you will oblige a Number of the

FRIENDS TO THEIR COUNTRY.

AT this critical Conjuncture, when his Majeſty's loyal Subjects in America, are in daily Expectation of receiving the joyful News of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act; which, had it taken Place, would have been productive of the cruelſt Slavery that ever was impoſed on a free People, it certainly would be moſt impolitic at this Time, not to endeavour the Prevention of the leaſt internal Diſquietude or Tumults among ourſelves, for many weighty Reaſons, but the Chief of them is, that ſome Perſons, miſchievouſly inclined, who probably would glory in being inſtrumental towards attempting an Inforcement of ſuch a diabolical Act, have been and ſtill are, induſtriouſly employed in propagating ſcandalous Reports raiſed among themſelves, (as well as other Aggravations in Order to cauſe a Diſunion of the People) of the Deſigns of the Sons of Liberty, as are beneath them to think of, and what they would ſcorn to execute. But, we hope that their Meaſures may be utterly defeated by a Continuation of that firm Union we have hitherto maintained, flattering ourſelves, that in a few Days they will be deprived of all Pretenſions to bring about an Opportunity of indulging themſelves in the Execution of any ſuch evil Purpoſes.

On Tuesday Evening last, at a stated Meeting of the Sons of Liberty, it was publickly declared, that Lieutenant Hallam, of his Majesty's Ship Garland, had, on the Morning of that Day, expressed himself much to the Disadvantage of the Americans, by advancing that their Proceedings were equal to the Proceedings in Scotland in the Year 1745, and other Invectives of the like Kind, which justly eludes to a Disaffection in them to the best of Kings. He was waited upon by a Committee, to require of him, from under his Hand, a Confession for his disrespectful Treatment of a People who had never injured him, but he refused to give that Satisfaction, denying that he had said what was laid to his Charge; whereupon Affidavits were taken of different Persons, who heard him declare the Words alledged against him; then he was called upon, the Affidavits produced, and communicated to him, but he still refused giving any Satisfaction, by which obstinate Behaviour, he has brought upon himself the Indignation of the Citizens in general, and should he meet the just Resentment of an undeservedly provoked People, it will be of his own seeking, and he must abide by the Consequence.----- While he makes an Asylum of his Majesty's Ship, he will be safe; at the Sons of Liberty would to a Man join in preserving the Property of their Sovereign, and by no Means attempt to commit the least Outrage against his Crown and Dignity; but would carefully avoid every Step that may have a Tendency to any Act of Disloyalty, as much as any of his Majesty's Subjects whatsoever, or wheresoever.

CHARLES-TOWN, APRIL 22.

ON the 15th Day of last Month, his Honour the Lieutenant Governor was pleased to give his Assent to a Bill for granting and allowing a further Time to the several Inhabitants of this Province, and others interested therein, for the Payment of the Taxes imposed in and by an Act of the General Assembly of this Province, commonly called the Tax Act, passed the 6th Day of April; 1765. So that all those Persons living without the Limits of the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, are to pay in their Taxes to the several Assessors, on or before the first Tuesday in December next, and those living within the Limits of the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, are to pay in their Taxes on or before the last Tuesday in January next ensuing.

Extract of a Letter from Rome, January 20.

" Our attention is taken up here with an odd kind of lawsuit between the two heirs of an old Gentleman lately deceased, erning a very ordinary piece of houshold furniture, enti-, A Warming-Pan. This little utensil, though of little or value, as to the materials of which it is composed, yet, ing been several years in the family, is looked upon as a d of sacred relick, which, for antiquity's sake, at least ht to be preserved. If we may believe some historians like-se, it has not been formerly without its use. A Whelp of the ht King Charles his Breed, it is said, was once found pupp-d in it in my Lady's Chamber. But others deny the circumnce of his being of the Blood Royal, and only allow, in geral, that he was artfully introduced there by a cunning bagge of a chambermaid, in order to put it off for her mistress's. this as it may, the Puppy soon grew up, and had so much the Royal Blood in him, that he has always been remarkafor going astray after the B---. He died on the 1st at night d has left no other memorial of his descent behind him, than e much contested Warming-Pan. This the two heirs are now igating with the utmost acrimony. The youngest, a sly, subtle fellow of a Priest, has got possession, and pretends that it is his by donation: The eldest puts in his claim as senior; but is plea, it is presumed will be over-ruled on account of his be-g an Heretick. All sensible people, however, have no doubt t this imputation is laid to his charge, purely with a design bringing him in for a rich farm in the neighbourhood, to hich the family have long made pretensions, and the Lords which must always be what are here called HERETICKS. short, the affair is now depending before the sacred College. w it may end we know not; but the old Gentleman's house d equipages are fitting up in a grand manner for the elder other, who is hourly expected here, though perhaps not so ch for the sake of prosecuting his right to the Warming-Pan, as with a View TO GREATER PURPOSES.

QUERY. " Who had the most Mourners last Sunday in " Town, the old Warming-Pan Gentleman lately deceased, " or Prince Frederick William? Did any mourn for the " Duke of Cumberland? ALAS! there were no Orders " to mourn for him."

By Captain Maitland from the Havana we are informed, That a new Governor and several other Officers were arrived there from Old Spain; and that all the British Merchants there had been ordered to quit that Place as it were by the 16th past.----- Captain Maitland could not obtain Leave to land his Cargo of Bricks which he carried from hence, altho' he was under Contract.

The Captains Stiles and Marshall, from this Port, are safe arrived at Philadelphia.

He purchased, when in LONDON, a genuine Copy of the LECTURE ON HEADS written by Mr. Stevens, and provided himself with the necessary Apparatus for delivering it: He has made some Alterations and Improvements, which he flatters himself will be a considerable Advantage to it, as many Strokes of Satire have escaped the Author, which Mr. DOUGLASS imagines to be directed at, rather, improper Objects, and in some Places the Sense was so obscure, that it was absolutely necessary to elucidate it, in Order to convey, with Precision, his Meaning to the Audience.

In this State he intends to exhibit it to the Town: But as an Undertaking of this Kind, is wholly new in this Part of the World, and the Success uncertain, he is advised by his Friends, (that he may be enabled to form a Judgment of the Encouragement it is likely to meet with, before he engages in any further Expence) to propose a Subscription, for Three Nights only, at Three Pounds for the Three Nights. MR. DOUGLASS returns the Public his most sincere Thanks for the many Favours he received this Winter as an Actor; he assures them, he will ever retain a most grateful Sense of the Obligations he has to this Province, which have so amply rewarded his imperfect, though well-meant, Attempts to contribute to their Entertainment.

He purchased, when in LONDON, a genuine Copy of the LECTURE ON HEADS written by Mr. Stevens, and provided himself with the necessary Apparatus for delivering it: He has made some Alterations and Improvements, which he flatters himself will be a considerable Advantage to it, as many Strokes of Satire have escaped the Author, which Mr. DOUGLASS imagines to be directed at, rather, improper Objects, and in some Places the Sense was so obscure, that it was absolutely necessary to elucidate it, in Order to convey, with Precision, his Meaning to the Audience.

In this State he intends to exhibit it to the Town: But as an Undertaking of this Kind, is wholly new in this Part of the World, and the Success uncertain, he is advised by his Friends, (that he may be enabled to form a Judgment of the Encouragement it is likely to meet with, before he engages in any further Expence) to propose a Subscription, for Three Nights only, at Three Pounds for the Three Nights. As soon as a competent Number have subscribed Tickets will be issued, and proper Notice given of the Night on which he will deliver the Lecture.
